HERMIT CLUB MEMBERS ALARMED
Consternation reigned at the Hermit club the other evening when the members were informed one of their officers is about to violate one of the most sacred oaths of the fraternity. Many of the members present indicated a committee be appointed immediately to pursue their erring brother from committing the deed—others exclaimed loudly that he should be given the fraternity's most severe penalty, which by the way, it executed, would indeed be a horrible sight to behold. But the conservative wing of the organization prevailed upon the other members to allow the miscreant to follow his intentions as they reasoned the courses he would pursue would no doubt lead to his doom eventually.

Von Rintelen, said to have been a member of the German nobility, was arrested in New York with other conspirators and was found guilty of conspiracy to promote sabotage and prevent the sailing of ships carrying ammunition and supplies to the allies.

He contended that he already had served the time imposed upon him, counting the time he had been imprisoned awaiting trial. At the White House it was said today that while Von Rintelen was a foreigner and could be deported it was deemed easier to avoid deportation proceedings by having him leave the country of his own account.
